CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MEETING

Drayton Valley's Chamber of Commerce held a meeting in the rear of the Royal Bank building. Licensing regulations were discussed, and a motion was passed that the Chamber sponsor an ad. requesting householders to notify the police of any unlicensed peddlers.

A letter was read from a lady in another town requesting information relative to setting up another beauty parlor in Drayton Valley. The secretary was asked to write the lady a letter suggesting she come and look over the possibilities of the town. A committee to investigate advertising in the Trade and Commerce Magazine with a view toward advertising the industrial potentials of this area was set up. Appointed to the committee was Mayor Adrain Meier and Chamber Chairman Jim Cumlin.

It was decided that the Chamber would sponsor a Christmas Tree decoration contest for residences. Prizes for the contest will be $15.00 for first prize, $10.00 for second prize and $5.00 third prize. The clergymen or the town are to be asked to act as judges for the contest. Judging will be concluded by the evening of December 23rd, and the prizes awarded then.

The Chamber decided to sponsor a Christmas Community Christmas tree again this year similar to the one that was erected last year. Chairman of the Christmas tree committee is Stu Lohan. The tree has already been set up and will soon be lighted.

Hours of closing for retail merchants in the town, and a day, or half day of closing came in for considerable discussion and it was decided to form a committee of retail merchants to delve into the matter more thoroughly. Appointed to the committee were Tom Smith, of Wilmar Foods, Rex Burrows, of Rex's Radio & T.V. and Len Barnard, of Drayton Valley Dry Cleaners.

NEW MAGISTRATE

Magistrate Clendenen, formerly of Saskatchewan has recently been appointed as full-time magistrate for this area. He will hold court in Drayton Valley regularly every Tuesday morning. For the time being Magistrate Clendenen will live in Stony Plain, where he will also act as Magistrate for the Town of Stony Plain.

NEW OWNER IN BILLIARD ROOM

Harry Lindstrom, from Connaught, Alberta is the new owner of Graylin Billiards. Mr. Lindstrom bought out Mr. Gray and Mr. Reglin recently. He says that one reason he came to this area was "grasshopper and gophers". In other words, Mr. Lindstrom who was farming in the Connaught area, had trouble with both of those pests and decided to sell out and come to Drayton Valley.

SPORTSTALK

By: Gene Baley

First of all, I wish to make a reminder to anyone who felt slighted or insulted by last week's column. The last thing that is intended in this column is to offend, and anyone however if interest is aroused and if my readers feel that something which appears here should be acted upon, then I feel that this column has accomplished everything it was intended to.

It appears that there is more behind the back of hockey ice than was hinted at last week. The present site of the hockey rink rests partly on property owned by the Dept. of Public Works; and

On the other hand, if the government refuses to part with that portion of its property that is needed, it looks as though a new site for the hockey rink might have to be found. Judging from the way that town are going at present, finding a suitable site might prove to be a difficult task.

Tennis to bowling, everyone is reminded that the Bowling Banquet this year will be on December 21st. Regular league bowlers can pick up their tickets free at the Bowling Alley. Any other persons interested, page 1, sec. 2, col. 6.

Dis Pers

Mr. Ian MacGregor

This week's District Personality deals with a man who has but lately come to the community, but whom we all expect to see quite frequently. In the future, Mr. MacGregor is the new manager of the brand new SSS Variety Store, which is having its official opening this week.

Ian MacGregor was born in Chauvin, Alberta, the son of a United Church minister. With his father in the ministry Mr. MacGregor moved considerably and took both his elementary and high school education "on the fly"; having lived in Alberta, B.C. and Saskatchewan. So accustomed to moving in fact, is the clergyman that the author of the best selling novel "Papa Was a Preacher" claimed that every spring after his father came home from the Annual Conference the chickens laid on their back with their feet in the air, to have their legs tied, ready for the move to the next parish.

Mr. MacGregor's business experience includes 17 years in the retail business in Alberta, 6 years as a commercial traveler and 3 years in the drygoods wholesale business, from which he came to manage the store in Drayton Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. MacGregor were married in Connaught, Alberta. They have one married son and a girl in high school. As soon as a home can be arranged for them Mrs. MacGregor and the daughter will move to Drayton Valley. Mr. MacGregor is a member of the Elks. He is very interested in community activities. He particularly likes curling in the winter and golf in the summer.

Printed by J. L. W. A. J. D. Printer to the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty, Edmonton, Alberta, 1959SEVEN REASONS WHY A SCIENTIST BELIEVES IN GOD

Adapted for the book "Man Does Not Stand Alone" by A. Cressy Morrison. A reprint from the Reader's Digest.

We are still in the dawn of the scientific age and every increase of light reveals more brightly the handwork of an intelligent Creator. In the 30 years since Darwin we have made stupendous discoveries; with a spirit of scientific humility and of faith grounded in knowledge we are approaching even nearer to the awareness of God.

For myself, I count seven reasons for my faith:

First: By unswerving mathematical law we can prove that our universe was designed and executed by a great engineering intelligence.

Suppose you put ten pennies, marked from one to ten, into your pocket and give them a good shuffle. Now try to take them out in sequence from one to ten, putting back the coin each time and shaking them all again. Mathematically we know that your chance of first drawing number one is one in ten; of drawing one and two in succession, one in 100; of drawing one, two and three in succession, one in a thousand, and so on; your chance of drawing them all, from number one to number ten in succession, would reach the unbelievable figure of one chance in ten billion.

By the same reasoning, so many exciting conditions are necessary for life on the earth that they could not possibly exist in proper relationship by chance. The earth moves on its axis one thousand miles an hour; if it turned at one hundred miles an hour, our days and nights would be ten times as long as now, and the hot sun would then burn up our vegetation each long day while in the long night any surviving spout would freeze.

Again, the sun, source of our life, has a surface temperature of 12,000 degrees Fahrenheit, and our earth is just far enough away so that this "enormous fire" warms us just enough and not too much! If the sun gave off only one half its present radiation, we would freeze and if it gave half as much more, we would roast.

The slant of the earth, tilted at an angle of 23 degrees, gives us our seasons; if it had not been tilted, vapour from the ocean would move north and south, piling up for us continents of ice. If our moon was, say, only 50 thousand miles away instead of its actual distance, our tides would be so enormous that twice a day all continents would be submerged; even the mountains would soon be eroded away. If the crust of the earth had been only ten feet thicker, there would be no oxygen, without which animal life must die. Had the ocean been a few feet deeper, carbon dioxide and oxygen would have been absorbed and no vegetable life could exist. Or if our atmosphere had been much thinner, some of the mammals, now burned in space by the millions every day, would be striking all parts of the earth, setting fires everywhere.

Because of these and a host of other examples, there is not one chance in millions upon one that our planet is an accident.

Second: The reasonableness of life to accomplish its purpose is a manifestation of all-prevailing intelligence.

What life itself is, no man has fathomed. It has neither weight nor dimensions, but it does have force: a growing root will crack a rock. Life has conquered water, land and air, mastering the elements, compelling them to dissolve and reform their combinations.

Life, the sculptor, shapes all living things; in art, it designs every leaf of every tree, and colors every flower. Life is a musician and has taught each bird to sing its love songs, the insects to call each other in the music of their multitudinous sounds. Life is a sublime chemist, giving taste to fruits and spices, and perfume to the rose, changing water and carbonic acid into sugar and wood, and, in so doing, releasing oxygen that animals may have the breath of life.

Behold an almost invisible drop of protoplasm, transparent, jelly like, capable of motion, drawing energy from the sun. This single cell, this transparent mist like droplet, holds within itself the germ of life, and has the power to distribute this life to every living thing, great and small. The power of this droplet are greater than our vegetation and animals and people, for all life came from it. Nature did not create life, fine-blended rocks and a selfish sea could not meet the necessary requirements. Why, then, has put it here?

Third: Animal wisdom speaks irresistibly of a good Creator who infused instinct into otherwise helpless little creatures. The young salmon spends years at sea, then comes back to his own river, and travels up the very side of the river into which flows the tributary whence he was born. What brings him back so precisely? If you transfer him to another tributary he will know at once that he is off his course and he will fight his way down and back to the main stream and then turn up against the current to finish his destiny accurately.

Even more difficult to solve is the mystery of cells. These amazing creatures migrate at maturity from all ponds and rivers everywhere—those from Europe across thousands of miles of ocean—all bound for the same abysmal depths near Bermuda. There they breed and die. The little ones, with no apparent means of knowing anything except that they are in a wilderness of water, nevertheless start back and find their way not only to the very shore from which they came but back to the same rivers, lakes or little ponds—so that each body of water is always populated with eels. No American eel has ever been caught in Europe, no European eel in American waters. Nature has even delayed the maturity of the European eel by a year or more to make up for its longer journey. Where does the directing impulse originate?

A wasp will overpower a grasshopper, dig a hole in the earth, sting the grasshopper in exactly the right place so that he does not die by no means becomes unconscious and lives on as a form of preserved meat. Then the wasp will lay her eggs handily so that her children when they hatch can nibble without killing the insect on which they feed; to them dead meat would be fatal. The mother often flies away and dies; she never sees her young. Surely the wasp must have done all this right the first time and every time, else there would be no wasps. Such mysterious techniques cannot be explained by adaptation; they were bestowed.

Fourth: Man has something more than animal instinct—the power of reason.

No other animal has ever left a record of its ability to count ten, or even to understand the meaning of ten. Where instinct is like a single note of a flute, beautiful but limited, the human brain contains all the notes of all the instruments in the orchestra.

No need to belabor this fourth point; thanks to human reason we can contemplate the possibility that we are what we are only because we have received a spark of Universal Intelligence.

Fifth: Provision for all living is revealed in phenomena which we know today but which Darwin did not know—such as the wonders of genes.

So unexpectedly they are these genes that, if all of them respond to all living people in the world could be put in one place, there would be less than a thumbnail. Yet these microscopic genes and their companions, the chromosomes, subdivide every living cell and are the absolute keys to all human, animal and vegetable characteristics.

A chimble is a small place in which to put all the individual characteristics of two billions of human beings. However, the facts are beyond question. Well, then—how do genes lock up all the normal heredity of a multitude of ancestors and preserve the psychology of each in such an infinitesimally small space?

Hem evolution really begins—at the cell, the entity which holds and carries the genes. How a few million atoms, locked up as an ultra-microscopic gene, can absolutely rule all life on earth is an example of profound cunning and provision that could emanate only from a Creative Intelligence; no other hypothesis (cont. page 8, column 2)

The trailer and all contents

Assistant Fire Chief Floyd Allen-

Take These 6 Steps To Home Safety!!!

A Check of Your Gas Appliances and Heating System May Avert an Accident.

Take time NOW to review the following SIX important points so you will KNOW that your home is SAFE. If you do not pay proper attention to the care and maintenance of your heating equipment, and home gas venting, tragedy can strike. Dangers increase during the cold weather — so make YOUR home safe... for the holiday season ahead...

A Word From Your Gas Company

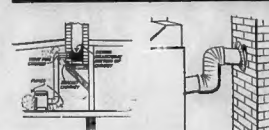

This year some accidents resulting from carbon monoxide have been reported to our office. It is not natural gas that causes these accidents... It is the products of incomplete combustion. Normally the products of natural gas combustion are carbon dioxide, water vapor, oxygen and nitrogen, all harmless. But if the chimney, or a vent pipe to the chimney, is blocked or partially blocked, the heating equipment may produce poisonous carbon monoxide which is spilled into the occupied space with possible harmful effects to the occupants. It is important that left-over gases get a chance to escape to the outside atmosphere, and we urge you to make the above safety check in your own home so that you can continue to enjoy Natural Gas with Safety.

Don't Let Accidents Mar The Holiday Season Ahead!

Do not try to repair any trouble spots yourself.
Call your local plumber, hearthsmith or gasfitter —
he is qualified to do a proper repair job.

SIX STEPS TO SAFETY

1. CHECK YOUR CHIMNEY.
Loose mortar, soot, and other debris may accumulate at the base of a chimney obstructing the free passage of the products of combustion. (This danger is particularly prevalent with "bracket" type chimneys.)
Top and show on the top of your chimney may also cause blockage and should be removed.

2. CHECK ALL VENTING PIPES.
Twice a year at least check all pipes used to vent gas appliances.
They may have become dislodged from the chimney... they may be too far into the chimney thus blocking the end of the vent pipe
... they may have been pulled away from the appliance or turned.

3. DON'T HOUSE GAS APPLI-ANCES. Older style ranges which are required to be vented should not be used to heat a room. Use a proper heater designed for this purpose.

4. BE ALERT TO THE DANGER SIGNS! Sighting of the eyes-open irritation and unpleasant odors are indications of fumes in your home. It is required that appliances be vented to the outside atmosphere except refrigerators, dryers and ranges approved without venting.

5. DON'T TAMPER WITH GAS APPLIANCES. Do not take chances
... Don't alter or install gas appliances if you are not a qualified plumber or heating contractor. If you wish your appliances checked or call your Gas Company servicemen.

6. FRESH AIR SOURCE. Be sure there is a source of fresh air in your home, but avoid drafts around your gas appliances. Do not keep your house "air tight".
Your gas appliances, like you, need fresh air.

Food for thought

By: Danita Boling.

Orchids to Sherry Scott! In the November 26th edition of this paper, Sherry blamed away at roaches and smart slice drivers that seem to think the road is theirs exclusively. We all admire Sherry and especially her ability at handling hoes, so it was pretty much of a shock to hear that she has been having some very close calls with reckless drivers while out homeback riding. My advice to Sherry is to cease being considerate and thoughtful of the offenders. Sherry, if you get the license plate number you will do us all a favor if you turn them over to the law enforcement officers. I have begged and pleaded, thru this column, for our drivers to obey the laws and use caution but apparently it's been like water on a duck's back for some of our drivers. If there are some skulls to tickle to be penetrated by a plain, ordinary, decent appeal then I guess the quickest and the easiest way is to talk a language that will penetrate and that language is best spoken by the police. I agree with Sherry, whiteheartedly. It is not all teenagers, by a long shot, that get into cars and drive the hoes. Just hop to it Sherry, and when you get the license plate numbers, turn them in! The parents who fear for their children's safety and those of us who would like to live a while longer and not be run down by a road hog, are behind you 100%.

A couple of interesting magazine articles have caught my attention this month and I would like to suggest that you read them. "Things My Mother Never Told Me", by Abigail Van Buren, in the December Reader's Digest, is worth the time for you Mothers to read, especially those of you who are raising daughters. Not only that, if your daughters are now in their teens you will want them to read it, too. It speaks the teenager's language and expresses your own thoughts and gives the message you want your daughters to have and to understand. In the December issue of Coronet magazine you will find a reprint of what is gradually becoming a Christmas classic! "The Unlucky Angel", by Charles Tazewell, will touch your hearts and you'll be missing a good bet if you don't read it aloud to your family. Christmas Eve would be an ideal time to gather the family around you and read this short, sweet story. Family reading is almost a lost art but try it this one time. You will never regret having done so!

Two weeks from now will be Christmas and until then we can all expect to be scurrying around with last minute preparations. More than one household will be serving ham and eggs or waffles for the main meal when there just hasn't been the time for meal planning. I can't think of anything that is faster to prepare or more acceptable, either. There are a few variations for your waffle recipe that might hold off the family's complaints if you are forced to serve waffles more often than them. To you regular waffle recipe 1 1/2 cups grated cheese (mild cheddar) into the batter. After filling the iron lay a short strip of lard bacon across the top of each serving portion, then bake. If you are not cheese and bacon fans then sprinkle 2 tablespoons of coarsely cut or broken toasted nuts over the batter as soon as it has been poured into the iron. Bake as usual. Using a richer batter (extra egg, a bit more shortening and milk) sprinkle 2 tablespoons of well drained canned blueberries (fresh ones if in season) over the batter after putting it into the iron. Bake. If evening guests come in and your pastry box is bare as Mother Hubbard's cupboard because you've been wrapping packages, add cream and try to finish all the things that must be done before Christmas then your best bet is to dash to the deep freezer and start defrosting some frozen waffle strawberries. They'll defrost rapidly if you put them box and all, in your electric skillet or regular frying pan and cover them and leave them on a low heat. Next step is to whip up a mound of cream, sweeten lightly and add a few drops of vanilla. Mix up a batch of waffles and the quickest way is to use your favorite waffle mix and follow the recipe on the box. You'll have waffles on their plates and pass them a bowl of yummy strawberries to put on the waffle and let them decorate it with a blob of whipped cream. I can't guarantee that any of you will lose weight but I can promise the hostess a lot of flattery and praise and a reputation for making good Strawberry Waffles.

"Keep your face to the sunshine and you cannot see the shadows," Helen Keller.

will serve.

Sixth: By the economy of nature, we are forced to realize that only infinite wisdom could have foreseen and prepared with such astute husbandry.

Many years ago a species of cactus was planted in Australia as a protective fence. Having no insect enemies in Australia the cactus soon began a prodigious growth, the alarming abundance persisted until the plants covered an area as long and wide as England, crowding inhabitants out of the towns and villages, and destroying their farms. Seeking a defense, the entomologists scoured the world; finally they turned on an insect which lived exclusively on cactus, and would eat nothing else. It would breed freely, too; and it had no enemies in Australia. So animal soon conquered vegetable and today the cactus pest has retreated, and with it all but a small protective residue of the insects, enough to hold the cactus in check forever.

Such checks and balances have been universally provided. Why have you just-bred insects dominated the earth? Because they have no lungs such as man possesses; they breathe through tubes. But when insects grow large, their tubes do not grow in ratio to the increasing size of the body. Hence there never has been an insect of great size; this limitation on growth has held them all in check. If this physical check had not been provided, man could not exist. Imagine meeting a horner as big as a lion!

Seventh: The fact that man can conceive the idea of God is in itself a unique proof. The conception of God rises from a divine faculty of man, unshared with the rest of our world—the faculty we call imagination. By its power, man and man alone can find the evidence of things unseen. The vista that power opens up is unbounded; indeed, as man's perfected imagination becomes a spiritual reality, he may discern in all the evidences of design and purpose the great truth that heaven is wherever and whatever that God is everywhere and in everything but nowhere so close as in our hearts.

It is scientifically as well as imaginatively true, as the Psalmist said: The heavens declare the glory of God and the firmament sheweth His handiwork.

Mr. Goldstein called on Mrs. McCone. "I've just heard your husband is in the hospital. What happened?" she asked.

"It's his knee," explained Mrs. McCone. "I found a blonde on it."

A woman stepped off the penny scale and turned to her husband, who eyed her appraisingly and asked: "Well, what's the verdict? A little overweight, eh?"

"Oh, no," replied the little woman. "I wouldn't say that; but according to that height table in the front, I should be about six inches taller."

He boasted that he could bend a horseshoe with his bare hands.

"That's nothing," snorted a pal.

"I can make it tie up one block of telephone wire with ten clips."

"School Daze"

By: RUPERT IRBETSON

Now that this year's Amateur Night is in the past, I can once again settle down in the daily routine of school work. Mr. Playford will be happy to know that I also believe in trying to keep my column as so far, he has been begging for this specification to appear. Don't worry "School" it's not "happy again" I hope.

The school's own, "Blue and Gold Darr", made its first appearance in the newsstand recently and should be making its second appearance very shortly. This year the school paper staff is headed by Editor, Wes Joe Hirsch; Assistant Editor, Gary Schell; and Secretary-Treasurer, Norma Oberg. This year promises to be a good one for the paper and the P.N.A. is going to be facing some pretty tough competition. As before, all profits from the sales of the Blue and Gold Darr will be used to purchase equipment for the school improvement. Be sure to obtain your copy early and enjoy a good school paper.

Plans are being made presently for another edition of the "Scope" the Highschool Yearbook. A staff has been picked and this year we have Jane Schoon and Sheila Campbell acting as Co-editors, and Louise Serenax as Assistant Editor. Wally Mohr is the top-out editor and has been Oberg is once again in charge of finances as the business manager. The "Scope" is going to be printed for by Inter-Collegiate Press, a Yearbook Publishing House in the States. Once again the local merchants will be asked to help support the Yearbook by placing an advertisement in it. Merchants, watch for the "Scope's" ad salesman and buy an ad.

Our Second Annual April Fren is, at present, being prepared. Last year this affair turned out to be a tremendous success and by starting on the stage-show early, the group hops to better last year's efforts. Leading the group again this year is Shirley Sieben. With her are students from grades 9 to 12 and all are looking forward to the "chance" to perform on our new gymnasium stage. Well, until April, the kids are going to be kept busy practicing for the big night. Until next week then, Adios.
